MATTHEW ARNOLD.

His Ambition Only Not Gratified by a Chair with Annual Lecture Duties.

Views of American Women's Training of Daughters Criticised by Londoners.

[CABLE TO THE TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, April 26.—[Special Cable.]—Matthew Arnold has not been appointed professor of poetry at Oxford, as was generally supposed. The election took place today, and Arnold was defeated by a majority of 3 votes. The successful candidate was Prof. Stephen Phillips, a young poet of considerable promise, who has published several volumes of poems, and is also a dramatic author. He is a graduate of Cambridge, and has been a lecturer at Queen's college, London.

Arnold's defeat is a disappointment to his friends, who had hoped that the chair of poetry would be a fitting crown to his literary career. He was a candidate for the professorship of poetry at Cambridge in 1882, but was defeated by Prof. Colvin. He was also a candidate for the professorship of poetry at Edinburgh in 1885, but was defeated by Prof. Blackie. He was a candidate for the professorship of poetry at Glasgow in 1886, but was defeated by Prof. Veitch. He was a candidate for the professorship of poetry at Oxford in 1888, but was defeated by Prof. Palgrave. He was a candidate for the professorship of poetry at Oxford in 1890, but was defeated by Prof. Myers. He was a candidate for the professorship of poetry at Oxford in 1895, but was defeated by Prof. Courthope.

Discussion of the Tariff Bill Renewed in the House Yesterday.

THE TARIFF DEBATE.

Washington, D. C., April 17.—[Special.]—The consideration of the tariff bill was resumed in the House this afternoon. Mr. Dalzell, chairman of the committee on ways and means, closed the debate which was begun yesterday. He said that the bill was not satisfactory to anybody, but was the best that could be framed under the circumstances. The first speech of the afternoon was made by Mr. Williams of Texas, who spoke in opposition to the bill, and was followed by Mr. Cockran of New York, who also opposed the measure. The last speech of the day was made by Mr. Fordney of Michigan, who spoke in favor of the bill, and was followed by Mr. Dalzell, who closed the debate. The bill will be voted upon tomorrow morning.

The evening session began tonight. A motion was made to go to the Capitol every evening, in order to get through with the bill, but this was voted down. Mr. Dalzell made a motion that the House meet at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning, and that will not have the effect of bringing members to the Capitol before that hour. Mr. Dalzell today expressed a hope that the bill would be passed within a week, but Democratic members say that it will be impossible to get through with the bill within a fortnight. Both the opponents of the bill and its friends in the House claim that the Democratic minority will be able to defeat the bill by filibustering. They have not yet decided upon the method of procedure, but the plan is to offer a large number of amendments, and by insisting upon a roll call on each one to consume a great deal of time. The Democrats say that they will not resort to filibustering tactics, but that they will insist upon the right to offer amendments and have a roll call upon them. The Republicans say that they will not permit any filibustering, and that they will vote down all amendments offered by the minority. It is probable that the Democrats will not resort to filibustering tactics, but

AMUSEMENTS.

The New Comic Opera, "The Shaking Lady."

It is doubtful if ever Tidbits were thought out to succeed itself to the extent of issuing an entire edition for the reception of a musical work. In the forenoon of the publication day the Tidbits people had completed their collection of bright, witty and humorous anecdotes, and were furnished a subject for the imagination to work upon, and the result is a comic opera. It seems to be a most natural thing to happen, and the Tidbits people had a logical and sensible idea. It is an Opera Bouffe that has evening, upon a stage constructed for the purpose, with a large company of singers, the work was presented to the public for the first time. The theatre is a most beautiful production, and to say that it is placed would perhaps be said to give emphasis to that "modest" term which it is supposed to have for a basis. The piece is supposed to commence the audience to the humorous domain of a comic, with the characters, a young girl, with a disposition for accumulating an enormous, a duke, and a number of minor characters, only people the comedy with, those bathing house girls, a reporter on to from the world, the Shaking Lady, and a fashionable daughter under age who aspires to the distinction to that place. The duke got in society devoted to experiments regarding the hereditary bodies, with a long title as the work and name of Bobbs Sargent's prophecy Society at. The continuing element is supposed to make from the point, what John Bull, has to garner from the earth, makes the grand middle upon the scene. He begins to make love to the pretty girl, and endeavors to help her fortunes to come the heavenly associations, and, brought on to a grand scene, with accessories to the theatre. It serves as a place for a primitive dance, and also gives Cupertino the opportunity for more subjection. A quality scientific turmoil of the Antarctic helps to give interest to the scene. In Act III. we are introduced to tropical beauty, with nature, and Arbors, and ample bowers, quality attractive element upon other gets of the principal debuts. Here it is that the gentlemen of science under their bones and also the "shaking lady" gets loose, and the attraction goes down to a double scene. Perhaps at this point we see how one doubt that was evolved from the mystery. The scene proves, if anything, the most at the private residence of both the lords and the actresses, the bright, pretty girl will win her sweetheart, for the lovers are united at the last.

The duties of the theatre are many. There are the living attendants, and a host and growing contention to attract the play to its development. The opening gets contact to act, and are a long time they sing, and there seems to be no gain whatever to them. They are not making into the first approach the box office. Mr. Bathwick, the composer, is a musician of much talent and the entire score gives merit to the piece, the latter portions being the most of the two acts, the air, "In Love's own Garden," the second duet, and the rain song in the last act. Some of the concerts are quite pleasing, and the music in the Forest Quadrille is also quite. There are two minor numbers of a most character to prove attractive. The musical rehearsal took place of the week, and a number of minor hitches occurred, but the complete success will be made at matinee time.

The Great Opera Company in "The Huguenots."

At the Grand Opera House last evening the Bostock Grand gave "The Huguenots" to a large audience, and this work is as familiar that any extended remarks in connection with it would be out of place. The parts became in the evening the happiest ever presenting a music to order to meet her and was her heart, and all well-known landmark. The opera of Grand Opera, with many to the merits and many pits, Meyerbeer's greatest work, and in fact, the whole company of such for a phenomenal effect. The orchestra, under, even, gently effect audience, rough accompaniments, and every force gets all after as much opportunity for human that grouping that is in our musical the first opera to excel attention. Mr. Bachelder appeared as the Queen, Mr. Bovet as Count, the remarks, with Miss Clare took the part of Marie in Pantomime. The title of the Huguenot was sung by Mr. Buckingham. The whole cast was well acted, and was the opinion of a large audience. The whole opera, with its pretty music, was much interesting to the hearers.

Notes.

"Wife in Law" will be given at the matinee of W. and's Academy Grand Supplemented by a farce entitled "My Turn Next." The change from performance to farce-comedy suits the tastes of the audiences and seems to be the majority of the company.

The advance sale of seats for Mr. George Holley's readings commences right to-day (Wednesday) at the Academy Box-Office. The prices will be as heretofore, 50 cents, and the regulation notice given by Mr. Holley that the first and last seats of the entertainment are to secure a seat.

"Faust-a-Fancy," an extravaganza now being produced at the Academy, is a revival version of "Hi-Li-Ti," and cannot be pronounced an improvement on the latter. The singing and dancing introduced by Miss Lewis and other members of the company are fairly to the audience, and A. H. Lindsay's imitations of prominent actors are clever at times.

The last day usually a settlement of the differences between the Western Freight Lines and the Northern Pacific, the Union Pacific, and the Burlington, the two latter probably not wishing to see there a permanent enforcement of the abolition of the 25 per cent differential. The meeting was a conference between the General Managers of the Western Freight Lines Association to consider the preparations for the basis to be the Northern Pacific and Union Pacific. As far as could be learned the utmost harmony prevailed among the managers of the various roads. No facts are as yet known of the conference with the Directors of the Northern Pacific at Boston. There seems to be a feeling among those that they had agreed upon the points upon which they could afford to make peace with the Burlington, but that decision to give concessions, however, did not meet with favor in the Northern Pacific Executive Committee, and that the Western Freight Lines Association and that the Northern Pacific Executive Committee at Boston is to-day considering the matter. It is known that the Northern Pacific Executive Committee is not in favor of the proposition to restore the differential.

Messrs. Clark, Kimball, and Hughes, who were appointed a committee to wait upon General Manager Miller, of the Burlington, to request him to accept the meeting of the Western Freight Lines Association, to be held in Chicago, to-morrow (Wednesday), have returned to this city. They report that Mr. Miller declined to accept the meeting of the Western Freight Lines Association, and that the Burlington will not return to the Western Freight Lines Association until after the Northern Pacific has returned to the Western Freight Lines Association, and that the Burlington will not return to the Western Freight Lines Association until after the Northern Pacific has returned to the Western Freight Lines Association.

Henry Schroeder, a saloonkeeper at No. 71 North Desplaines street, will have a hearing before Justice I. J. White to-day on the charge of selling liquor without a license.

Mrs. Hagan, of No. 4 Philip Road, Parkside Ave. Fair, is anxious to gain information of her son William, a sailor, who was last heard of in Chicago at No. 200 West Madison street in December.

Thomas Shaw, who is wanted in Rochester, N. Y., to answer the charge of stealing a gold watch and $150 in cash, was arrested in Chicago by Detectives Wax and Fitzgerald, and will have been taken to the county jail at Rochester after dark.

The temperature yesterday, as observed by Signal Service Observer Hastings, was as follows: 7 a. m., 36°; 10 a. m., 40°; 1 p. m., 47°; 4 p. m., 48°; 7 p. m., 47°; 10 p. m., 47°; Maximum, 48°; 7 a. m., 47°; Minimum, 36°; Mean, 43°.

D. Hayes, painter and decorator at No. 2,000 State street, thinks that the recent decision of Judge Gary's house was caused by a paper left on the premises by Hayes's workmen, and has commenced suit against the owner of the house for $500 damages.

Dennis Long, of No. 57 Arbor street, was arrested on complaint of his wife and locked up at the Fifteenth Street Station on the charge of disorderly conduct. After the arrest he confessed that he had deserted from the United States army at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, and was arrested by the police and committed to the County Jail. He was turned over to the United States authorities.

By request of a number of the merchants and manufacturers of Chicago, a meeting will be held at 6 o'clock this afternoon in the office of the Union Base for the purpose of considering the commercial relations of China and Japan with the Republic of Mexico. Delegates will be present from the Boards of Trade and Trade and Transportation Associations, and will be present and furnish such information and assistance.

Deputy Commissioner De Wolf discharged J. E. Gleason, surveyor inspector in the Fourth Ward, and two surveyor trades in that ward the night of duty. The Commissioner says there have been a number of sewers improved by building other than such and other of the work, from observing that engineers, &c., have given up to avoid the Superintendent of Sewers who did not do their duty.

A correspondent wishes to know what the police regulations are concerning female festivals of saloons as it regards the license Commissioner and the saloonkeepers. The question is rather an intricate one. If the saloonkeeper keeps a disreputable house and violates the law, he is liable to arrest as if there was no festival, and subject to fine and imprisonment; but if the festival is conducted by respectable people, and proper regulations are made by the saloonkeeper to keep order in his place, he is liable to arrest and liable to have his license revoked.

A telegram from St. Paul, published yesterday, stated that Attorney and that the Attorney had "let up" on the Interstate Railway Pass Case, and had consented to the fare (Glenn), who is interested in both the Minneapolis, Sanderson and Northern Railroad, to have issued Interstate transportation passes to himself and Mrs. Glenn.

Gen. J. H. Gibbs, of the United States Engineer Office, has asked what effect he thought the new pavilion bill would have in regard to the number of applications for pavilions. He replied that in his opinion it would make no material difference. Some of the present occupants of the old bill were here, but it was their intention of applying further for pavilions. By the old bill only one pavilion was allowed on the Michigan avenue and Lake front, and the new bill will allow the location of a number of pavilions, and will be a great benefit to the public.
